

Help your lean development teams move faster with Azure and GitHub

Developing AI apps doesn't have to be overwhelming.

Microsoft Azure and GitHub give small development teams an integrated, AI-native toolchain that removes friction at every stage. You can design, build, test, and deploy AI apps and agents using tools you already know, with AI accelerating the work your team does every day.

faster task completion with GitHub Copilot¹

Azure and GitHub streamline development, and working with SEEPATH SOLUTIONS gives your team hands on support to deploy AI confidently and get value faster.

Accelerate development teams with AI assistance.

- Reduce repetitive tasks and speed up coding with GitHub Copilot.
- Use AI agents to write, test, generate code, and automatically validate changes.
- Spend less time on remediation and debugging.

Build smarter with integrated models and templates.

- Access 11,000 plus models directly within GitHub.
- Easily test and compare models with built-in evaluations.
- Start fast with customizable AI solution templates.

Reduce tool sprawl and streamline workflows.

- Get integrated experiences between GitHub, Microsoft Foundry, and Azure.
- Work with seamless handoffs between coding, testing, deployment, and monitoring.
- AI-native DevOps gives small teams big impact.

Azure is secure by default.

Security should never slow a small team down, and with Azure, it doesn't. Every AI app and agent you build is protected by the same enterprise-grade safeguards that power all Microsoft innovations.

Vulnerabilities are caught early through GitHub Advanced Security, identity is enforced automatically with Microsoft Entra ID, and harmful or unsafe model behavior is monitored in real time through the Foundry Control Plane.

Content Safety helps ensure your AI stays aligned to your standards, while continuous monitoring gives you visibility into how models and agents behave as they run.

With security built in at every layer, your team can move fast and innovate confidently, knowing the platform is working behind the scenes to keep your business safe.

Move faster with the right expertise.

Partnering with Seepath Solutions gives your team a trusted guide to navigate every stage of your AI journey, from strategy and solution design to deployment and optimization.

Schedule a personalized consultation.